A GROSS INJUSTICE.—Articles like the following are very commonly to be met with in the papers, now a days. We find this in the Atchi-

It must have been noticed by all intelligent persons, that the loudest champions of the poor soldier are those who stayed closest at home during the war. There's Mr. Jim Blaine, for instance, who is perpetually raining tears for the boys in blue, who served his country when it most needed his aid with a hired substitute. He is the man of all others who has talked most incessantly of the Democratic hatred of the Union soldier, and he is an excellent axample of the stalwart Republican who has eccupied all the positions of trust and profit, and allowed the gallant soldier to shift for himself. There is a great deal of idle buncombe and nonsense in this war of words with reference to the defenders of our liberties. The soldier who was of real use at the critical period is not running around yelling about it, and therefore only attracts attention by the ardor with which he pursues the avocations of peace. It is the campfollowers and bounty-jumpers that make the noise. It is our experience that the political hog will just as readily awindle a soldier out of office as anybody else.

Such are the missiles that are burled, unthinkingly in many cases, let us hope, at the head of the true men who are struggling against the revolutionary schemes of the men who once rebelled against the Government, but who have again got it almost completely in their fatal grasp. We are sure that no gallant Union soldier in the war of the Rebellion would give utterance to such sentiment, if he took a calm thought of the subject. Where would the soldiers in the field have been, had not such brave and able men as Blaine and the others who are so severely censured, stood up firmly and guarded them from assault in the rear, more dangerone than attacks in front? When the Democratic party, as an organization, was denouncing the ers in the field; when the Knights of the Golden Circle were organized all over the land, plotting active aid for the rebels; when recruiting officers and returned soldiers were shot down in their own houses; when these and thou sands of other things were on foot against the soldiers, what would have been their fate had it not been for the "stay-at-homes," who took care of the North, carried the elections, and elected such men as Blaine to Congress, to supply the soldiers with the necessary means to save the Government and themselves from annihilation ? Blaine and men like him in Congress and the State Legislatures, were worth a thousand men in the field. Leave it to the Rebels and sympatizers to denounce the men who did not go to war, but who did their part well at home, and who now wish to preserve what the soldiers

THE INGALLS CASE.-It is a hard matter to keep up with the Ingalls case. Late reports are to the effect that the Committee had decided that the investigation by the Kansas Legislature had exhausted the subject; and that Ingalls had resigned his place on the Committee and was succeeded by Logan. Then, last week came the news that the Committee had decided to investigate, but would not vote to that effect for a day or two, in order to give Ingalls an opportunity to ask for an investigation-on the principle that sometimes, in the army, an officer is informed that his resignation will be accept ed, for the good of the service. It is not stated whether Ingalis made the request or not, but the despatches say that the Committee has resolved to investigate by a sub-committee, who are to visit Kansas during the recess. Perhaps he will now have an opportunity to appreciate the feelings of poor, betrayed Pomeroy.

But this determination to investigate seems to have had one good effect upon Ingalls. For the first time, be has participated in the debates of the Senate, and made several good points against the Confederate Brigadiers. Nothing like trials to bring out a man's usefulness.

SOLDIERS' REUNION .- A soldier of the Union, in this issue, proposes something that we trust will be carried out enthusiastically. It is a reunion of soldiers who fought for the Union in than you can say "scat!" At least that has been time since the war, such a meeting is needed. If the fame and glory of the Union soldiers are to be preserved from ingratitude and insult, they must do something to maintain their just rights. The men who fought to destroy the Government, are now making its laws. To have fought for the life of the Government, is now held to be an unpardonable offence, debarring the soldier from official position. The men who went into the Rebellion, now brazenly stand up in the halls of Congress, and tell the Union soldiers that they were the traitors, and that the defeated Rebels were the patriots and the friends of the Union. If the soldiers are true to themselves and the cause for which they fought, these things can never occur again, after the expiration of the peesent Congress. By meeting together, reviving the associations of the past, and renewing the pledge to maintain the issues for which they fought and conquered, they can push along the good work.

There was another exhibition of the good old slave-driving spirit in the United States Senate, the other day. Lamar, in pursuance of a pre-arranged plan, undertook to insult Conkling, but the latter hung it back upon him, where it still hangs. Now the Confeds, are puzzled to decide whether it is Conkling's duty to challenge Lamar, or Larmar's to challenge Conkling. It is probable that Conkling will take no other notice of their bullying than to kick the chopfeed out of some of them, if they come too near him. It only needs another Bully Brooks and Summer affair to place things on the good old Democratic basis.

IMPORTANT LAW .- The last Legislature passed a law relative to surveying lands, and establishing lines and corners, that is important to all land-owners in Kansas. It provides fully for all cases of dispute or uncertainty, whether the lands be occupied by their owners or held by non-residents. We shall publish this law with in the next week or two, as there are may persons in this County who need the relief that it

Please notice, that whenever somebody casts doubt upon the soundness of the Democra cy of the one-horse editor of some patent-outside oncern, who is trying to straddle three or four horses at once, he forthwith proceeds to establish his orthodoxy by slobbering over some perjured Rebel leader, and kicking spitefully but impotently at men who never brake their oath trayed their country. The Hiawatha Sun

Some Mone.-The Germantown (O.) Press, makes light of our "Curioalties of the Cyclone," published several weeks ago, and, under coercion of Jake Paulus, intimates that if anybody else had told of them, it would not believe them. Well, we did not see the things spoken of, but we believe they were true, as they were vouch ed for by responsible persons, who were there. Here are some more, of the same kind, which we

A farmer found one of the wheels of his wagon two and half miles from home, the remainder of the wagon being left a wreck on the premises. A tire was blown off a wagon-wheel, and straightened out as well as blacksmith could have done it.

Many chickens were found with the feathers blown off as clean as they could have been picked off after being scalded, and the fowls were

A farmer was blown from his house and car ried entirely over his orehard, and his dead body was found beyond. The body of a woman was driven into the ground, head foremost, to the shoulders. A man's coat was ripped up the back in the centre, and torn off of him, one half going one direction, and the other half in the opposite di-

A calf tied in a shed, and a pig in a pen close by, were taken up into the clouds, and came down in a door-yard a mile and a half distant. A boy was taken up, carried over trees and fences, and came down, unburt, on a gentleman's door-step half a mile distant; and on being ques-ned, he didn't know how he had got there! A man out from home took refuge in another house, which was blown down, and he was tumbled over the brush for some distance, and landed in a ravine, just in time to save from drowning the son of the person whose house he had taken refuge in, who had been carried by the wind to the same spot.

THE KANSAS CHIEF—Now published at Troy, for-merly called the White Cloud Chief, and published at a town named for it, up somewhere in Doniphan County, has just completed its twenty-second year. Sol. Miller is the editor, publisher, printer and devil, and what he don't know about getting up a newspa-ner, is not worth knowing.

and what he don't know about getting up a newspaper, is not worth knowing.

By the way, what has become of White Cloud, since the Chief moved away from it! We haven't heard it mentioned, these five years. Faded out, probably. Some people don't know a good thing when they have it, and we presume half the men in White Cloud thought they were supporting the Chief when they gave Sol. a quarter column "ad," but the fact was, that Sol. Miller and the Chief supported the town, which dried up and blew away when Sol. left it.

The above is from the Lawrence Tribuse, from the pen of our old friend, Judge L. D. Bailey, we me. We thank him for his compliments, but he, unintentionally, no doubt, does a great injustice to the people of White Cloud. They gave the Chief all the support in their power, and, we thought, were always liberal with us, to the extent of their means. But the location was unfortunate for a newspaper, being in the extreme corner of the County and State, so that we labored under constant disadvantages in the way of newspaper work, that could not be overcome by the utmost liberality of the people We never have and never shall complain of their lack of patronage. And White Cloud is not dried up, by any means. It is now a more live town than it has been for the last six years, having more bustle and push, and doing a better business. We cannot accept, without expla nation, compliments at the expense of the pec ple whom we have occasion to remember with so much gratitude.

The Troy Chief of June 19 commences volume 23. The Chief is one of the papers you always select out of a pile of exchanges, because it says something. There is more good newspaper work put upon the Chief, both editorial and mechanical, than any other weekly paper in Kansas. Sol. Miller is an unfair and ungenerous opponent in a newspaper controversy, but he is a hard-working, independent editor, who says what he thinks, without fear or favor, and we like him for it.—Topeka Capital.

Wherein unfair and ungenerous f Because we

Wherein unfair and ungenerous? Because we take the drop on them, when we can get it ? We think that we are naturally fair and generous; but we long ago found out by experience that the only way to get along in the newspape business in Kansas, is to seize all advantage that offer, and use them. When you go to exercising your fairness and generosity, you wil find everything hogged away from you, quicker

A Missouri Democratic paper says, that notwithstanding Ewing's "Order No. 11," and his other offences during the war, there is not a rebel soldier or bush whacker on the Missour border but would vote for him, if they had as opportunity. That's even so. All a Rebel asks is, that a man be on the Democratic ticket. That makes him sound, no matter what he may have done in the past.

Prince Louis Napoleon, son of the late Emperor of France, has been killed by the Zulus, in South Africa. He was connected with the British army. This probably plays out the Bonaparte dynasty in France, for all time to come; although the Bonapartist leaders have beld meeting in England, and declared that they would find some timber to fill his place.

We have been asked why the majority in Congress are always spoken of as the Confederate Brigadiers, when none of the Democratic members from the North were Confederate Brigadiers. Why, you see, the latter are the rank and file. Of what use are Brigadiers, without anybody to command, and make toe the mark?

It was reported, last week, and confirmed, that John M. Langston, United States Minister at Hayti, had died of the yellow fever. But Langston himself deules it. He says he has been very sick, but is recovering. Here is a conflict of authority, that can be settled only by the official returns.

The President has withdrawn the nomi nation of Secretary McCrary for the Circuit Judgeship made vacant by the resignation of Judge Dillon. He thinks it was premature; but we suppose his real reason is, that the confirmation was liable to be defeated.

13 Upon the receipt of the news of the death of Prince Louis Napoleon, Eugenie called the Bonapartist leaders to Chiselhurst. What did Hurst have to do with the killing, that they wanted to chisel him!

A bill has passed Congress authorizing the equal exchange of standard dollars for trade dollars at the Mint. In view of this, the trade dollar should go in business for the full value of a dollar. The Holt County (Mo.) Sentinel, one of our oldest exchanges, appears in a handsome new dress, and much improved in every re for betrayed their country. The Hiawatha Sun has just tried its hand at this.

General Country of the ablest documents of the day, is Blaine's letter to the business men of New York, on the subject of the decay of the American chipping interests. It is a question that America will wake up to, some day, with a start. With domestic enemies of the Government in control of it, and with America at the mercy of jealous nations on the sea, it will be at once seen how utterly defenceless she would be, in an emergency.

If Merely to keep his hand in, you know, the President has vetoed the Judicial Expenses bill, which was principally drawn for the purpose of prohibiting the President from enforcing the laws. The Brigadiers are puzzled; but they have made up their minds that it will never do to adjourn without providing for carrying on the Government.

(Written for the Chief.) AS SPRING IN GRASSY MEADOWS.

Oh, love! whose light and glory Deep sea, without a shore, Wherein life's crystal waters

As Spring in grancy meadows
Wakes up the sleeping flowers.
When kinsed by golden numbeans
And wet with April showers,

So love, the great life-giver, Transfigures all the hours.

While on the sloping hill-sides, Caressed by Summer air, A thousand fragrant blossoms Spring up without our care, To human hearts, love's sunlight

Brings gifts as rich and rare.

The Benver Read.

Yesterday afternoon the official car of the Union Pacific Railroad, bearing S. H. H. Clark, General Manager of that road, came in from Council Bluffs, attached to the regular 2 o'clock train. He was met at the depot by L. D. Tuthill, General Manager of the St. Joseph & Denver City Road, J. H. Barnard, General Superintendent of the St. Joseph & Council Bluffs Road, and several other gentlemen, who escorted him to the Pacific House. From there, those interested proceeded to the general offices of the St. Joseph & Denver Road, where a consultation was held in regard to taking its affairs out of the hands of the present receiver. What this consultation resulted in has not been made public, nor could it be ascertained what the new management propose to do, when it is taken from the receiver, but a gentleman well posted in railroad matters, and who knows whereof he speaks, intimated to a Heruld representative that a comprehensive system of improvements had been decided on, and that as soon as the extension to Grand Island, now in process of construction, was completed, St. Joseph would be greatly benefitted. "I can confidently assert," said the gentleman, "that St. Joseph will take a shoot forward that will surprise everyloody, and that the city has a glorious future before it." This would indicate that something substantial is going to be done.

It is thought the road will be taken out of the hands of the receiver, and placed under the control of the new directory, as soon as they can meet and organize, which will be in about two weeks.

Manager Clark went on to Kansas City at 12 o'clock last night, to complete arrangements in regard to assuming control of the Kansas Pacific, which has been turned over to his control by order of the United States Court, now in session at Leavenworth.—St. Joseph Illeraid.

A Business Man who Must Succeed.—In several of the large cities of this country there are a few business men who, for many reasons, have been kept constantly and familiarly before the people; men whose good names have not always bern sufficient to protect them from business adversity, but have repeatedly assisted them to rise again from conditions of misfortune. Among these men Horace Waters, long identified with the music trade, is a compiencous example. Horace Waters & Sons, on May 21, made an assignment for their creditors, owing to losses and heavy expenses. This course was adopted because Mr. Waters believed it more honorable to make an assignment while he could pay 100 cents on the dollar than to go on and be obliged at a later, day to compromise with his creditors. He does no intend to let circumstances keep him down, but he has given up all his property to his creditors, and will, while satisfying their demands, seek to retain the custom which he had acquired by 30 years of enterprise and fair dealing. He has made arrangements to act as agent for a person who has furnished capital to do a cash business. He will furnish for cash instruments of precisely the same quality hither-to sold by the firm of Horace Waters & Sons, selling them at a great reduction from former prices. To those who send their orders to him, at 40 East 14th St. P. O. Box 33:30, he gives assurance that they will be cheerfully and faithfully executed, and that all who desire to make purchases may depend upon securing bargains. Mr. Waters has business experience and integrity, and with these and indomitable energy he will assuredly retain his old business friends, and speedily re-establish his affairs on a firm basis. Mr. Waters has also signed over his private property to be held in reserve to meet any deficiencies.

A Losing Joke. A prominent physician of Pittsburgh said jokingly to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, "try Hop Bitters." The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

ATCHISON AND NERRASKA RAILEOAD.—The extension of this road from Lincoln north is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible, the line having already been surveyed and located. The road after leaving Lincoln runs west, following the Blue River into Seward County, thence north through Butler. On the 3d inst., the proposition for aid was submitted to the people of Seward County, and resulted in favor of the bonds by a vote of 4 to 1. On the 4th inst., Butler County voted with the same result, the aid in both Counties amounting to about $200,000.
